Summary: Perseus is born in ancient greece as the god of life, death, and resurrection, son of Hades and Demeter. His domains are the fields of punishment, elysium, and life and death its-self. NEED IDEAS! i don't own PJO. Rated M just in case.

God of Life, Death, and Resurrection

AN: perseus is the Olympian god of life, death, and resurrection.

Thanatos still exists but is the minor god of death.

Thanatos takes the souls. but perseus is the owner of the souls after death.

Perseus POV

What is the difference between life, and death?

Life, your soul is in your body, your alive, with friends and family.

Death, your soul has left your body, your soul is either in Elysium, or the fields of punishment, never to see your family and friends again.

Until i came along.

You may be wondering who I am, you want to know?

I am Perseus, Olympian god of life, death, and resurrection. son of the god of the underworld, Hades, and the goddess of corn, grain, and the harvest, Demeter. and was born about the same time period as my cousins Apollo and Artemis.

(Side note, perseus, as the son of hades, is the god of death, and as demeter has the power to give plants life, then he could have the domain of life, as well has with both domains he can have the domain of resurrection because he can give and take life.)

Thanks for reading. there would be more, but i need ideas, and this just popped into my head.

Peace, The GA Bulldog, Out.
